Staying home is inevitable these days. I did many things, such as watching movies, dramas etc.

This time, I'd like to talk about a drama that truly impressed me. The drama's name is "Jin". This movie focused on an infectious disease in the Edo era. There were no vaccines or special medicines in this era, so many people died from infection.

Nevertheless, one man saved many people's lives in this era. His name is "Jin". This drama's name. You can learn how Jin helped people's lives by watching this drama.

This drama was aired many years ago, but it is still applicable to the present day. I really recommend this.

I am going to introduce the series, "Back to the Future". It is a story of a trip into the past. Marty, who is the main character, is sent 30 years into the past in a time-traveling DeLorean invited by his friend, Dr. Emmett Brown. Marty overcomes many difficulties in the past. He is desperately trying to find his way back to the future in the year 1985. It becomes a battle against the clock.

Everyone can enjoy this series because you can understand the story easily. Also, this series has 3 parts in total. Why don't you watch "Back to the Future" in your free time? I hope you will like it.

Do you know what SDGs is about, exactly?

SDGs stands for Sustainable Development Goals, which is a global agenda calling for actions to achieve 17 goals by 2030. Take a look at the first agenda: No Poverty. As you know, there are remarkable gaps between developing countries and developed countries. Sadly this pandemic has widened the gap between rich and poor and increased the number of problems with poverty. It's not about issues only around the world but in Japan at the same time. According to the official website of UNDP (United Nations Development Programme), there are 736 million who live in extreme poverty in the world.

We have to know the reality and need to face existing problems. How can we contribute to achieve SDGs 17 agenda?

Some companies have become aware of the importance of considering about the environmental issues. Some of them have eco-friendly products, like recycled clothes. In addition, schools provide their students with opportunities to learn about SDGs. You may have watched it featured in the news. So, this awareness is likely to spread on a global scale. Let's take action and make a step towards a sustainable world.

[Here are my suggestions]

- ① Turn the faucet off frequently and do not waste water. It is rare that we can drink water from a faucet. (6: CLEAN WATER AND SANITATION)
- ② Bring your own water bottle as much as possible, instead of buying drinks from vending machines. (13: CLIMATE ACTION)

INTERVIEW COLUMN with Mr. Andy

How do you like Japan?

I like Japan very much. I think there are a lot of good things about Japan. In fact, it is very safe, convenient and exciting. There are a lot of things happening in Tokyo. Tokyo is a big city in the world, so I can feel very excited because I am in a big city now and there are a lot of new things to do. There is a good healthcare system in Japan and it is a very good place to raise children. Of course I really like Japanese food and I like eating out a lot in Japanese restaurants and ryokan. To be continued!
